

PRESS RELEASE

TILDESLEY & TONKS Ltd

21 January 2004

IN SAFE HANDS WITH E-THINKING ACCOUNTANCY FIRM

An innovative e-safe launched by Wolverhampton chartered accountants and business advisors Tildesley & Tonks Ltd means clients can store and access confidential information online wherever they are in the world.

Called docSAFE, the novel tool lets clients store documents, from company accounts to back-up copies of computerised books and records, in a secure location, which can only be accessed by using a password.

As an extra safety measure, all files are saved as 'read-only' documents and a specially designed encryption service makes it impossible for unauthorised users to hack in and access confidential information.

Mark Evans, managing director of Tildesley & Tonks Ltd, said: "Technology has a vital role to play in today's business culture and by offering our clients a secure online storage facility we're helping them move one step closer to the paperless office."

Tildesley & Tonks has always been ahead of the game when it comes to IT and the company has recently revised its award-winning website to incorporate a host of new services designed to make life easier for small to medium sized enterprises.

Amongst other services, businesses accessing www.tildesley-tonks.co.uk automatically get the latest information on subjects ranging from tax law to spotting fraud, plus the ability to download useful forms and use facilities like tax calculators.

The website also includes a section called 'Businesses for sale' which provides access to a regularly updated online national database. In addition, there is a facility to run company reports, including a service which checks credit ratings and alerts you to any future solvency problems in relation to your major customers, either existing or potential.

Mark added: "Our website has been designed to reflect the needs of our clients and many of the services available are there as a direct response to feedback we've received from them. As our clients have become more IT literate we've adapted our working practices to suit and we aim to help businesses achieve their goals by using the latest and best available technology."

To help both existing and prospective clients get to grips with the IT revolution, Tildesley & Tonks will be running a series of seminars later in the year.

Further information on these can be obtained by calling Mark Evans on 01902 420815.
