THE NEW VOICE OF BUSINESS

Autumn 2006

Mark Evans, managing Director of Tildesley & Tonks, celebrating his firm's move to offices at Pendeford Place

Accountancy takes space at Pendeford Place offices

Tildesley & Tonks, the Wolverhampton-based chartered accountants and business advisors, have moved to brand new offices at Pendeford Place, Pendeford Business Park.

The move was the result of rapid growth at the firm over the last six years which has resulted in the team outgrowing its city centre offices. Mark Evans, managing director of Tildesley & Tonks, said, "The new offices have given us 2,000 square feet of open space and we now have room for the planned continued expansion of the business."

Tildesley & Tonks was established in Wolverhampton in 1903. Mark Evans took over the practice in 1995 and over the last 11 years has modernised the company's operations with a large investment into the latest computer systems and a new website, www.tildesley-tonks.co.uk.

It now acts for more than 200 local and national businesses, with specialist areas including advising charities, property developers and construction companies on a complete range of tax matters.

Mr Evans added: "Although we have been promoting our niches services, we are still committed to our core business of providing affordable and reliable accountancy and tax advice to SME's - small and medium sized enterprises."
